JOEY BOY'S OUTING: IPSWICH (NOT THE DOCKS): 22ND JUNE 2006

The county town of Suffolk stands on the estuary of the River Orwell, a position which led to its being an important port as early as the 10th century.

The town was granted its first charter by King John in 1200 and for the next four centuries prospered due to the trade in Suffolk cloth to the Continent. Although greatly rebuilt during Victoria's reign, Ipswich retains part of its architectural heritage in the form of medieval churches and a few Tudor buildings.

Present day Ipswich is still prominent in shipping and remains one of the main commercial centres of East Anglia.

CORNHILL - Netherspoons (Golden Lion Hotel, No. 10, AND MANNINGS, No 8)

This was the boroughs ancient market place, and it was the focal point of the Anglo Saxon street plan whose shape can still be traced in Ipswich.

Three buildings dominate the square today - the Post Office, Lloyds Bank, and the Town Hall which is constructed in Italianate style with a French pavilion roof.

PUBS - Early's - breakfast.

Hamilton Hall - Liverpool Str. Stn. - Netherspoons.

Station Buffet - Manningtree Stn, Up Side.
